MINERS TOLD THEY "MADE MISTAKE"

137 OHIO MINES STILL WORKING, U.S. ANNOUNCES

Large Pits Closed but Small Fields and Strip Companies Producing.

By The Associated Press

The solid fuels administration reported in Washington that six days after most soft coal mines had shut down, 137 miles still operated today in Ohio, producing 2,583 tons daily and employing 2,703 men.

The S. F. A. estimated the tonnage to be about one-seventh of normal production. Ohio mines employ about 20,000 miners. All of the state's larger mines were idle with small pits and strip operations accounting for the bulk of continued production.

As coal stocks shrank, companies furnishing gas to Ohio users sought ways to increase the supply in the face of a stepped-up demand caused by numerous conversions from coal furnaces to gas furnaces for residential heating.

Construction Authorized

The federal power commission yesterday authorized the Ohio Fuel Gas Co of Columbus to construct $2,370,100 in facilities to receive additional natural gas for distribution, with construction to be completed in 1947. Included will be underground storage projects covering 5,225 acres in Lorain and Medina counties and compressor stations and 88 miles of 16-inch pipeline in Lorain, Fairfield, Licking and Knox counties.

In Washington pressure was exerted to bring the big inch oil lines into use for immediate transportation of natural gas. Charles H. Smith, Big Inch Oil, Inc. president, New York, urged War Assets Administrator Robert M. Littlejohn to award his firm a contract to purchase the lines and promised transportation of natural gas to the Kentucky-Indiana-Ohio area at a rate of 159,000,000 cubic feet daily within 10 to 12 days.

The Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Co., which supplies Ohio gas customers along with those of other states, scheduled a meeting of officials and representatives from the states affected and the federal power commission in Chicago Dec. 4. The meeting will consider ways of meeting estimated peak needs greater by 49,000,000 cubic feet than its inelastic daily supply of 400,000,000 cubic feet.

4-Day Holiday Seen

A four-day Thanksgiving holiday was in prospect for many Ohio industrial workers as well as school children in a move by industry to conserve coal.

DEARTH OF STORAGE BATTERIES CRITICAL

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Nov. 27 — Although governmental controls on lead imports have been removed the shortage of electric storage batteries continues critical.

The American Automobile association, following a nationwide survey of the replacement battery situation, reported that hundreds of thousands of motor vehicles may have to go out of use with the first spell of cold weather. Before the winter is over, the association added, millions of cars may be out of commission for the same reason.

Other automotive sources point out that while import restrictions were removed allocation controls limit the amount of lead battery makers may obtain. Thus, they asserted, a manufacturer might be able to arrange to purchase 1,000 tons of lead but could use only 200 if his allocation were fixed at the lower figure.

Under regulations of the civilian production administration the amount of lead available for use in replacement battery construction during the fourth quarter of this year is 20 per cent below the quantity that was used in the third quarter.

20 Reported Injured In Chicago Explosion

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 27 — About 20 persons were reported injured today in an explosion and fire which collapsed a cigar factory building on the near north side. Two persons were understood to be trapped in the debris.

Alexian Brothers hospital reported a "large number" of the injured had been admitted there for treatment.

Most of the injured were reported to have been passengers on a street car which was passing the building at the time of the blast.

The building, a one-story brick, was used as a warehouse.

Marion Starts Light Dimout To Comply with Fuel Order

Marion dimmed part of its lights last night and took other measures to set up a coal conserving program here in compliance with Gov. Lausche's emergency orders for light and power curtailment. Briefly developments were as follows:

Retail merchants voted late yesterday to abide by the provisions of utilities order U-14 of the civilian production administration cutting light and power to essential uses.

Christmas lights in the downtown area will remain out for the remainder of the emergency.

Mayor Harry L. Dowler appealed to all Marion residents to take all measures possible to conserve both coal and gas.

Marion coal dealers agreed to sell coal only to persons having less than a 10-day supply and not to deliver to stores or commercial concerns during the remainder of the emergency.

The mayor wired to Harold Smith, area district manager, solid fuels administration, Cleveland, for an emergency supply of coal for domestic use.

Fuel Committee Named

An emergency fuel committee was appointed by the mayor to meet Friday night in the mayor's office to discuss further means of fuel conservation here. The committee includes Ben T. Wiant, Robert T. Mason, E. E. Holt, Ellis Oiler, Carroll Davidson, Charles Buente, Father W. J. Spickerman and Rev. R. W. Faulkner.

The Marion division of the Ohio Public Service Co. notified consumers in Marion of the provisions of U-14.

Action to comply with the government's coal conserving order was taken late yesterday afternoon when approximately 30 retailers met in the offices of the Marion Chamber of Commerce. While the retailers stated they would comply with the orders they were of the opinion that coal savings made by complying with U-14 would not warrant the inconvenience the dimout would cause the public. They agreed, however, that they would comply to the letter with the federal restriction order.

Survey Coal Supplies

Most of the lights in the downtown area were dimmed last night following the retailers meeting and the theater marquee lights were out. Because it was late when the retailers' vote was taken some establishments were not notified in time to comply with the order, however, Chamber officials reported.

A Chamber of Commerce survey of downtown commercial establishments yesterday revealed that most concerns had a sufficient coal supply to last through the Christmas season. However, many of the establishments do not use coal for heating.

Nearly all of the city's coal dealers, the utility companies, city officials, school heads and Chamber representatives were present at the mayor's meeting in the council chamber last night.

Report Supplies Low

Coal dealers reported their supplies low and it was estimated there is only about 1,000 tons of lump coal and about 500 tons of stoker coal left in the city, with little prospects of getting much more until the coal mines reopen. Gas company officials reported Marion's gas supply was critical.

Mayor Dowler told the group that provisions of U-14 should be and would be enforced in Marion. Street lights, traffic lights and other lighting facilities necessary for safety will remain on, he said.

Marion's action follows an order from Gov. Lausche proclaiming a state of emergency in Ohio as a result of the coal mines shutdown and clamping light and power restrictions on all communities in the state.

CITY TO PAUSE FOR HOLIDAY

Thanksgiving Day Brings Suspesion of Business; Union Church Services Toight.

Marionites will pause Thursday as the nation celebrates the Thanksgiving Day.

Business places, factories, banks, schools and government offices will be closed all day.

Churches will hold special services.

Family gatherings, in many instances complete for the first time in several years, will be the order of the day, and the traditional turkey will be the guest of honor.

Union Service

The Union Thanksgiving service will be held tonight at 7:30 in Trinity Baptist church under the auspices of the Marion County Ministerial association. Rev. R. W. Faulkner, president of the association and pastor of Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church, will preside. Rev. E. H. Wierth, pastor of the First Evangelical and Reformed church will offer the invocation and Rev. Eldred Johnston, pastor of Central Christian church, will read the Scripture. The prayer of thanksgiving will be given by Rev. E. M. Hertzler, pastor of the First Church of the Brethren, and Rev. J. B. Holloway, pastor of the host church, will read the President's Thanksgiving proclamation.

The speaker for the services will be Dr. V. E. Busler, pastor of Epworth Methodist church, who will use as his theme: "Let Us Give Thanks." The Trinity choir will sing an anthem: "Praise the Lord," by Maunder, under the direction of Mrs. E. H. Moore, with Mrs. Cecil Davis presiding at the organ. The offering will go for World Relief.

Masses at St. Mary Catholic church, aside from the mission services, will include a mass of Thanksgiving, and at St. Paul's Episcopal church the Thanksgiving observance will include communion service at 10 a. m. Thanksgiving services were conducted at the Salvation Army citadel Tuesday night.

St. Paul Episcopal church will hold services and communion at 10 a. m.

City, county and parochial schools will be closed Thursday and Friday.

Football Game

Sporting events will hold the interest of many Marionites. The Safety Cab A. C. football team will play the final game of its season against a high-powered Columbus team, 740 A. C., at the Harding High school stadium at 2:30 p. m. There will be wrestling at the armory at 8:30 p. m.

Marion's four motion picture theaters will present the following programs:

Increased State Aid for Ohio Schools Asked by Association

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 27—The Ohio Education association's executive committee proposed today that the state's annual school foundation payments be increased from $59,000,000 to $82,000,000 as a move toward "reversing the downward trend in Ohio education" and again making "school teaching an attractive career."

B. I. Griffith, assistant OEA secretary, said OEA representatives meeting here Dec. 26-28 would be asked to approve a request to the January legislature that:

1. The flate state support be increased from $44 to an average of $58 per child.

2. The minimum supporting level of the state foundation program be raised from an average of $68.50 to $106 per pupil.

$2,250 Average Possible

Those two proposals, which would raise Ohio's contribution to public schools by about $23,000,000 a year, would make possible an estimated annual average salary of $2,250 for teachers in any school district in the state, compared with a present average of $2,010, B. A. Stevens, OEA research director, said.

Equalization funds are paid now by the state to districts where the local tax yield from the required three-mill minimum for school purposes, plus the flat distribution of state funds which goes to minimum income per pupil set by all schools does not equal the the state.

Under the OEA proposals, the number of districts receiving equalization payments would be enlarged to include an estimated 610,000 pupils as compared with a present 250,000. The minimum three-mill local tax levy would be increased to four mills, but "only in a very few districts" would that have any effect, Griffith said, since "the average amount of local support for school operation is now almost eight mills."

State Grant $66

If the present ratio of elementary and high school support by the state were maintained under the OEA's suggested plan, the $14 increase for all school pupils would make the state's flat grant for each elementary pupil $55 and $66 for each high school pupil. The level of equalization would be raised to $100 for elementary pupils and $120 for those in high school.

An Ohio contribution of $82,000,000 to schools under the OEA program still would leave the state behind California, where $139,000,000 in state aid was approved by voters this month and Michigan, where the constitution was amended to provide between $90,000,000 and $100,000,000, Griffith said. California, he added, has "approximately the same number of school children that Ohio has, and ichigan 25 per cent less."

Governor-elect Thomas J. Herbert, advised of the OEA plan, repeated a campaign statement that he favored an increased subsidy for public schools, but said he had "no specific figures in mind at present" and had not discussed the matter with the OEA.

STEUBENVILLE DRIVE NEARS SHOWDOWN

By The Associated Press

STEUBENVILLE, O., Nov. 27—A measure to provide extra police to fight crime headed toward a showdown today after receiving a second reading before city council.

There was no discussion last night of the bill which would allow safety Director Alfred Schaefer to appoint "one or more private policemen" to help enforce state and federal laws here.

It will be read a third time and voted on at the next session of council on Dec. 10. If approved, the bill will become effective 30 days later.

Three of a dozen ministers, whose campaign to rid the city of vice and crime resulted in introduction of the ordinance, were present at the council meeting.

Meanwhile, one of the ministers, Dr. Norman E. Nygaard, hit back at a statement in court yesterday of Municipal Judge William D. Downer, who struck at

DEPOT SALE OPENS TO VETERANS TODAY

Certifying Agents Set Up Quarters In OPA Office.

The $2,414,002 surplus commodity sale at the Marion Engineer depot opened to certified veterans today and officials there predicted a rush in business during the next few days.

Certified veterans may make purchases at the sale today, Friday and next Monday. Certifying officers of the Cleveland district of the war assets administration set up offices today in the former OPA office on East Center street where they will issue certifications to veterans today, Friday and Monday. Veterans applying for certifications to make purchases at the sale must have with them a copy of their discharge papers or other proof of their having been in service.

WAA officials reported good response from federal agencies during the first two days of the sale. A majority of the orders were sent in by mail, they said.

The sale is being conducted in Warehouse No. 2 just inside gate three at the depot. Doors of the warehouse are open from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. Next Tuesday and Wednesday have been designated as sale date for small businesses through the Reconstruction Finance Corp.

CPA WARNS DIMOUT VIOLATIONS CRIMINAL

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27— The civilian production administration warned dimout violators last night that continued infractions of regulations may lead to criminal prosecutions.

In telegrams to 3,000 concerns, CPA advised that investigations the first night the dimout was in force indicated they were using electricity for non-essential purposes in violation of the order.

Morris S. Verner Jr., CPA compliance director, said the telegrams went to concerns in all 21 states covered by the dimout order and that about 400 went to the New York City area.

He said the violators were warned that continued offense could lead to prosecutions under the second war powers act which provides a maximum fine of $10,000 and imprisonment of a year upon conviction.

Another CPA spokesman said violators would be warned first and that the second step probably would involve having power companies shut off the violator's current.

Criminal prosecution also is a possibility, he said.

Report Lists Shares For This Area

If the OEA recommendations for additional state aid are put into effect, the following is the estimated aid Marion and other city school districts in this section of Ohio would receive (present aid in parenthesis))

Marion, $421,532 ($244,215); Bucyrus, $86,651 ($61,686); Delaware, $133,990 ($89,416); Galion, $118,856 ($71,460); Kenton, $109,824 ($66,610); Mansfield, $399,511 ($270,998); Mt. Vernon, $150,290 ($98,855.)

Darkened U. S. Reels Under Coal Stoppage

80,000 Now Idle in Dimmed-Out Nation with 250,000 Likely.

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 27—A partly dimmed-out nation today reeled under the growing impact of its second major coal stoppage within a year as unemployment in related industries hit 70,000 and there were indications 200,000 to 250,000 workers would be idle by next week.

All phases of life felt the effects of the soft coal walkout. Schools from faraway Denver to Philadelphia closed heatless buildings; 80,000 steel, railroad and river workers were thrown out of work; 80,000 citizens in Provo, Utah, pleaded for coal to warm their houses; and 21 states observed "brownouts" more drastic than those imposed in wartime.

Predict Worse To Come

There were predictions of worse things to come if the nation's 400,000 bituminous miners continued their seven-day walkout.

Irving S. Olds, chairman of the board of U. S. Steel Corp., the country's leading steel producer, last night said coal stocks in company plants were almost non-existent and operations "already materially reduced, will soon come to a virtual standstill."

In Atlanta, Ga., the manager of the Chamber of Commerce predicted 40,000 persons there would be out of work within a week if the coal walkout continued.

The Tri-State Industrial association predicted 100,000 employes in its steel fabricating plants in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio also would be idle within a week. In a month, the association said, all 200,000 workers would be out of work.

New Layoffs Announced

New layoffs today included 27,000 industrial workers at Toledo, O., 1,500 Norfolk and Western Railroad employes, and 1,576 Virginia railway workers.

In addition, the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co. expected to lay off another 10,000 workers tomorrow. It also was said 3,600 steelworkers at Birmingham, Ala., would be affected by the end of the week.

Utah, where the temperature yesterday was a chilly 33, was hardest hit by the coal stoppage. At Provo, the county commissioners and Chamber of Commerce appealed to John L. Lewis and the United Mine Workers to provide coal for the Ironton coking ovens which provide heat for the county's 60,000 citizens.

"The health and even the lives of some people will be jeopardized if heat in the homes is shut off as scheduled this week," the appeal said.

UNION LEADERS SAY BLUNDER COMMITTED

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Nov. 27 — Most labor leaders here decline comment on soft coal work stoppage but Alvanley Johnston, head of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, says "someone has blundered."

Johnston was one of two labor officals who would be identified with comment on the stoppage and the government's court action. The other was Paul E. Miley, regional co-director of the CIO United Auto Workers.

"In my opinion, someone has blundered," Johnston, whose union was in the nationwide railroad strike last spring, said. "I feel the situation could have been avoided. Someone is at fault and I can't say whether it is John L. Lewis or the government."

Miley said the CIO was supporting the miners "in this particular fight" in every possible way because the union "feels the government's action is illegal."

"We think our members still support the miners in spite of the fact that they realize it will cost them a considerable loss of work," he added.

Several AFL leaders who would not allow their names to be used voiced sympathy for the miners, but said they believed Lewis' move came at the wrong time.

First Christmas Trees Due Here Next Week

First Christmas trees are expected to arrive in Marion next week, merchants reported today.

Trees are expected to be of good quality and prices will be about the same as last year, merchants said. Unless restrictions on decorative lighting, brought on by the government's coal conservation program are lifted before Christmas, trees will be without lights this year.

TRIAL JUDGE CALLS LEWIS' ACTION HASTY

Should Have Waited for Judicial Decision, Goldsborough Says.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27—Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough told John L. Lewis' 400,000 United Mine Workers today they made "a very great mistake" in walking out before the courts ruled on a contract dispute with the government.

Interrupting opening arguments for dismissal of a contempt of court citation against Lewis, Goldsborough said:

"The court feels that your action in not waiting for a judicial determination was a very great mistake on your part."

Judge Goldsborough said Lewis and his mine workers "are guilty of contempt of court" if it is proved legally they disregarded his order against a coal mine walkout.

In those words, Goldsborough indicated that his decision in the contempt case against Lewis and his miners would not be influenced by the union's claim that the stop-strike order violated the Norris-LaGuardia anti-injunction act.

Regardless of whether or not the Norris-LaGuardia act applies in the soft coal case, Goldsborough said, no one can disobey a restraining order.

"If that could be done we would have anarchy," the judge commented.

Goldsborough said the real issue which the court hoped to settle was whether Lewis had the right to break off his contract with the government, or whether under the Smith-Connally labor disputes act he was impelled to keep his miners on the job for the duration of government operation.

Say Act Doesn't Apply

Lawyers for Lewis argued that operation of the coal mines was not a "sovereign" function of the government, and that the government itself did not regard the miners as government employes. Therefore, they contended, the Smith-Connally act, which outlaws the instigation of strikes against the government, does not apply.

Lewis' attorneys contended the government was directly responsible for the soft coal walkout.

"There need not have been any cessation of employment — there would not be today," counsel for Lewis said, "if the government had complied with the terms of the contract.

AFL General Counsel Joseph Padway, heading Lewis' legal corps at the opening of his contempt of court hearing, referred to the government-United Mine Workers' agreement which Lewis cancelled last Wednesday.

Challenges Government Stand

Padway challenged the government's contention that it is not subject to laws restricting the use of injunctions in labor disputes, declaring:

"There is no exception in favor of the government. The claim that such an exception exists is a perversion of the law."

Government officials have contended that the Norris-LaGuardia act limiting the use of labor injunctions applies only to private management, not to the government. The mines which have been shut down since last week, despite a federal injunction against a stoppage, were under government seizure.

Padway described the injunction which Lewis refused to heed as "a command to go back to work."

Judge Voted for Act

It developed during opening argument for dismissal of the contempt citation that the presiding federal district court judge, T. Alan Goldsborough, had voted for the Norris-La Guardia act when he was a member of the house from Maryland.

At one point during a general discussion of the mine shutdown Judge Goldsborough leaned forward and remarked:

"Calling it a labor dispute does not make it one."

Again, later, he interposed:

"What you saying, Mr. Padway, is that when society itself tries to protect itself from cold and hunger and misery and economic disintegration it is involved in a labor dispute. That is what you are saying."

"The gentlemen (government

Santa Writes from Labrador and Says He's Sure To Be in Marion for Friday's Parade

Labrador
Nov. 27, 1946

HI THERE KIDS:

This is Santa again. We're getting closer to Marion all the time and there just isn't any doubt at all that we're going to be there for Friday's big parade.

I was just a little worried back there about a thousand miles. Mrs. Santa Claus asked me suddenly, like she does sometime, what state Marion was in. Well, I was taken aback for a minute, because come to think of it, there are Marions in Indiana and Illinois too. I knew it was around there somewhere, but I just wasn't sure exactly where.

Then I suddenly remembered your Marion is in a state that's round on the ends and "hi" in the middle, and that's Ohio, so I set a straight course for Ohio and told Dunder, my lead reindeer, throw it into overdrive.

We're over Labrador now and it's very cold and windy. You hardly ever see a tree. We were over the ocean all the way from Greenland to here and it looked very rough. Every now and then we would see a whale spouting like a giant fountain or the seals playing on the icebergs.

There now! We're getting down into Canada all right!

Just saw a Canadian Mountie with his red coat chasing his man. And there are some log cabins. The kids up here will all want skis, sleds and skates, and they'll have plenty of chance to use them. Why, their winter lasts all year around, although yours hasn't even begun yet.

And that reminds me. I still haven't heard of any snow down there in Marion. How am I ever going to get all my reindeer into town? Well, don't worry—Mrs. Santa and I will be there even if we can't bring the reindeer. We'll be seeing you Friday.

Butcher Likes His Work Except for Customers

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 27 — Old Bill, a jockey-sized one-legged butcher, liked everything about the meat business except his customers.

Hal Boyle

He had been behind a few days or weeks behind the counter in our neighborhood grocery store. Then one day he bought a new shirt and went to the green pastures.

Year after year he came back, a wandering robin — each time getting a little more gray and bald. His hair whitened, he kept his summer-and-winter suntan, and they made his face seem ruddy and childlike.

He liked family life, fur-thermore, and of all other lure of a butcher's life he liked hand-rolling cigarettes, chewing tobacco, the smell of fresh cut beef, corn whisky and telling long harmless lies about what he would do if he had a million dollars.

He always showed up early on Saturday morning. He liked the mornings best because he could stay in the back room at the block, boning up meat chunks for the day's hamburger.

Never Ate Hamburger Himself

Billy never would eat hamburger himself. "I've made too much of it the last thirty years," he said. At lunchtime he'd fry up a small steak in a skillet half full of hot grease, and we'd sit around listening to Billy's tall tales about famous saloon brawls he had won by using his wooden leg as a club.

He never would tell us for sure how he had lost his leg. He had half a dozen versions.

"A rat bit it off in my sleep," he would say, or "I bet it on a horse race and lost."

Boss Has "Suggestion"

And then "the boss" would poke his head through the doorway and say, "You probably talked it off, Billy. Come on, let those kids get back to sacking potatoes."

Billy disliked the late afternoons because then the customers flooded in and he had to work behind the counter. He hated women customers in particular.

"Always fussing, always complaining, always wanting to tell you their troubles," he said. "I have to stand still so long waiting for them to buy a dime's worth of cat meat it makes my wooden leg tired."

But after the last customer had gone, the meat put into the icebox for the weekend and the display platters cleaned, Billy would tell of his great dream—what he would do if he ever got a million dollars.

Would Open Store

"I'd open me the biggest meat store in town," he said. "Fancy icebox, new shelves, clean sawdust on the floor every day. I'd buy me the longest glass display case ever made and I'd fill it to the top with five-pound steaks tender like butter.

"I'd have a grand opening with movie stars and the mayor around and somebody blowing a bugle, and I'd give gum and candy to the kids.

"Then I'd let the customers in—one at a time. When some old biddy asked me to pull out a steak and then said, 'No, I believe I'd rather have that one further down in the case, you know what I'd do.'

"I'd say, 'lady, do you want this steak or not?' and I'd let her have it—five pounds of fresh meat right square in the face. What a store!"

And Billy, his face rapt with innocent hate, would collect his pay, and limp off into the night, his dream so glowing in him he no longer felt the pain in his throbbing stump.

PASS ARCHITECTS' TEST

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 27 — Twenty-five Ohioans successfully passed the September examination for registration as architects, largest group in the 25-year history of state architects examinations, the state board of examiners of architects disclosed yesterday. The successful examinees by cities included Newark, Warren C. Suter; Mansfield, James K. Wittenmyer.

Lodge Auxiliary Meets At Labor Union Hall

A meeting of Ladies' Auxiliary No. 277 to Roosevelt Lodge No. 1281 and local No. 1059, Machinists AFL, was held Monday night in Central Labor Union hall with Mrs. Leiah Eaton in charge. The sunshine drill was won by Mrs. Mary Bolinger, and the flag drill was given in honor of Myrtea auxiliary of Bellefontaine. Members of the auxiliary were guests at the meeting. A special award was presented to Mrs. Effie Elliott. The evening was spent in playing whoopee with high honors going to Mrs. Dorothy Burkepile, Mrs. Carolyn Neimeyer and Mrs. Hazel Sears. Refreshments were served by the social committee with Mrs. Mae Baldauf as chairman. Election of officers will be held at the next meeting, Dec. 9.

Special Thanksgiving Broadcast Schduled

A special radio broadcast featuring Jay Jostyn, radio's Mr. District Attorney, pleading "the cause of brotherly love toward the suffering people of the war-devastated countries," will be heard Thanksgiving day over station WMRN, it was announced. The time will be 1:30 p. m., Rev. R. W. Faulkner, president of the Marion County Ministerial association, through which the program has been brought to public attention here, states.

Prepared by the Church World Service organization, the broadcast will have church overseas relief and reconstruction as the theme of the quarter-hour dramatization starring Mr. Jostyn. Soloist will be Johnny Johnson backed by an a cappella choir of 20 voices from Wagner Memorial Lutheran college.

The broadcast is the climax of a nationwide 'Share-Your-Thanksgiving' appeal for $2,000,000, being made simultaneously by the Protestant churches of America for overseas relief, including ministrations to churches, it was stated. Special offerings will be taken in Thanksgiving services sponsored by churches of Marion and vicinity, and at the union Thanksgiving service in Trinity Baptist church tonight.

William Bendix, the screen star, was once a bat boy for the New York Giants.

Food Shortages Seen in Major Cities if Coal Crisis Goes On

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27—Food shortages may develop in major cities, agriculture department officials said today, if there is a prolonged stoppage by soft coal miners.

They told reporters they foresaw no immediate disruption in processing and distributing supplies but that should the strike continue several weeks, shortages would become acute in many areas, particularly in big cities distant from major producing sections

Drastic curtailment of rail shipments of livestock could bring on a meat shortage more severe, they said, than that which developed before the lifting of OPA price controls While much livestock is moved by trucks, the latter might well be restricted for the want of gasoline normally moved by coal-burning locomotives

Citrus To Feel Effects

Officials said the effects of the strike would be felt first and most sharply in transportation of citrus fruits and fresh vegetables from Florida, Texas and California

Most of the nation's food processing plants depend upon coal Hence, a prolonged shortage of fuel would force many such plants to curtail their operations if not close.

In this category are dairy products manufacturing plants, oilseed crushing plants, refrigeration plants for perishable products, sugar refineries, flour mills and meat packing plants

Milk Production in Danger

Officials said milk production might be seriously affected in areas where dairymen are dependent upon feed supplies shipped in by rail Much of the east depends on grains grown in the midwest.

They said a long stoppage of corn production would make an already bad shortage of food fats and oils considerably worse They reported that some West Coast copra crushing plants already have been closed, and that plants for crushing soybeans, flaxseed and cottonseed face the same prospect

Depends on Length

The effect of the strike on food exports will depend they said on the length of the strike They said rail movements of food to ports probably won't be hampered for a time. Shortages of coal for processing plants, or curtailment of electrical energy for such plants, may have more serious repercussions on exports than transportation difficulties

The stoppage will seriously curtail the production of farm machinery, fertilizers and insecticides needed for next year's production if it lasts very long, officials said

It might also result in restrictions on rail transportation of lumber—a development which could affect the supply of food containers

The tobacco industry might also be affected since coal is needed for re-drying plants as well as tobacco product manufacturing plants

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Rheumatic Fever

Rheumatic fever has been called Juvenile Enemy No. 1 and rightly so for this treacherous disease not only accounts for 95 per cent of heart trouble among children but is also the chief cause of death and disability in young adults.

Occuring most often in children from five to eight years of age, it has a habit of coming back time after time, causing more heart damage with each recurrence. Thus, it is important that this dread disease, which so often hides behind what appears to be no more than a severe cold, be diagnosed at its first appearance so that measures to prevent its return can be instituted at once. Fortunately, doctors have two aids to accurate diagnosis—X-ray and what is known as a blood sedimentation test.

Although the exact cause of rheumatic fever is not known it would appear that poor housing, dampness and improper living conditions in general contribute to its development. Rheumatic fever often develops following a sore throat or tonsillitis. The first symptoms may be pain or soreness in the joints about a week after the throat trouble has cleared up. Other symptoms of the disorder are fever, paleness of the skin, failure to gain weight, and rapid beating of the heart.

Of course, whenever there is any suspicion that the disease is present, a physician should be called in at once so that a diagnosis can be made. Parents should not ignore joint pains when they occur in a child and think of them as "growing pains" because growth does not cause pain in the joints. These mild joint pains often may be the first sign of rheumatic fever. Often the first symptom is just plain tiredness.

Unfortunately, at present there is not specific cure for rheumatic fever. It would appear that the best treatment available is long continued rest in bed. Preparations known as the salicylates are useful in relieving the symptoms to some extent. Often it may be necessary to keep a child in bed for a period of three to four months or even longer. It has been thought, too, that giving one of the sulfonamide drugs regularly to children who have had an attack of rheumatic fever may be helpful in warding of attacks of sore throat and tonsillitis and thus preventing recurrent attacks.

A great deal of research is being carried out in order to determine the exact cause of rheumatic fever so that a more specific type of treatment may be found.

Until that date comes, a child's best defense against this hesitrappler must remain in watchful parents—parents who see to it that he gets the right foods for good nourishment; parents who are well enough informed to know when to suspect that it may be present, parents who are careful enough to call the doctor immediately when they have observed rheumatic fever.

Program in Churches Urges Bible Reading

Churches of Marion will join this week in a program of "Thanksgiving to Christmas Worldwide Bible Reading," urging the public to follow the daily schedule of Bible passages outlined by the American Bible society. Rev R. W. Faulkner, president of the Marion County Ministerial association, announced. The readings will begin with Thanksgiving day and will feature "some of the 'spiritual pioneers' of the Bible who found the 'Word of Power' for the age in which they were called to live."

For the rest of this week and next week, the schedule includes the following Thanksgiving, Genesis 8.20-9 17, Noah; Friday, Genesis 12 1-9, 17 1-8, Abraham; Saturday, Genesis 32, Jacob; Sunday, Dec. 1, Genesis 37, Joseph; Monday, Exodus 3, Moses; Tuesday, Ruth 1, Ruth, Wednesday, First Samuel 3, Samuel; Thursday, First Samuel 16, Psalms 139, David; Friday, First Kings 19 9-18, Elijah, Saturday, Nehemiah 8, Nehemiah.

Ancient Hebrew physicians prescribed a grain of salt or the eggs of a grasshopper as remedies for toothaches.

No Power Without Responsibility

THE government is trying to prove that John Lewis and his United Mine Workers can be held legally responsible for the coal strike.

It hopes that if the strike can be shown to be contrary to law, the miners will go back to work in time to avert a crisis in the coal supply.

The government is taking a long chance, but it has no choice. It must try to enforce such laws as already exist. It cannot wait for new ones.

All the advantage lies with Mr. Lewis. He can spar in court indefinitely, he and his union can pay fines—he can even go to jail—and the government still must lose its case unless coal mining is resumed.

Mr. Lewis has the power, in other words, to ruin the country, and legalities are incidental. This is the issue he has brought to a showdown—this power to make or break the fortunes of his countrymen according to his whim. He and all other executives who have disregarded the public welfare, convenience and safety, have created an intolerable situation.

They have forgotten that the American people bestowed on them the power they abuse and therefore the American people can take it away, either all of it or any part of it. The majority of the people were minded to take away part of it before the coal strike. The calling of the strike under circumstances which showed Mr. Lewis in an attitude of defiance toward his government has increased their determination.

Mr. Lewis has miscalculated the meaning of popular sovereignty. He has dealt with government as a collection of individuals; he worked with, then against Franklin D. Roosevelt, always against Harry Truman. He has shown no respect for the sovereignty of all the people, which is the signal for them to recover power that has been abused. The people, through congress, gave Mr. Lewis and other labor leaders more rope than they had dreamed of having. They have been using it to hang themselves. The coal strike is helping to tighten the noose. Other strikes in the offing will tighten it more.

National Spending Policy

TAXPAYERS will believe in federal economy when they see it. Promises ceased to have any meaning years ago. The Democratic party made a joke of it.

In 1932, the party campaigned on a platform of economy. The per capita debt of the federal government that year was $156, which Democratic orators charged was too high. The Hoover administration, cried Democrats, was bankrupting the nation.

In the next fiscal year, due to the government's failure to curtail spending, the per capita debt had risen to $179. An ever-higher rate of federal spending became an established policy. The unbalanced budget and the theory of subsidizing consumer purchasing power by creating federal indebtedness were advanced as the means of reaching a bright new world, by 1939, the per capita debt had passed $300. By 1942 it had gone past $500. To liquidate the national debt of the United States, each person would have to raise $500. In 1930 only $131 would have been required. In 1915 before World War I, the per capita debt was $11.83.

Between 1942 and 1943, the per capita debt soared past $1,000. It is now up to or past $8,000. This is the heritage of each individual from a national spending policy—a debt grown so large in the aggregate and in its weight on individuals that it costs more to pay a low rate of interest on it than it used to cost to pay all the operating expenses of government.

Economy, according to spokesmen for the new Republican majorities in the house and senate, can reduce taxes, bring the national budget into balance and at the same time make debt reduction possible. It has been a long time since economy was mentioned as a possibility in Washington, and a longer time since economy was practiced. The payers will believe it when they see it, and if they see it they will know the end of an era has been reached, the spending era when millions were told by their leaders in Washington that debt was nothing to be worried about because Americans owed it to themselves.

Oswald Garrison Villard, old-time notable in American journalism, says the modern columnists have "only partly filled the void" left by the great editors of his day. He is not referring, of course, just to newspaper space.

That burst of gleeful jeers you heard came from a baldheaded man who just read about $1 haircuts.

Photographs of the Earth taken from an altitude of 65 miles are somewhat deceptive, showing only a smooth and placid surface, a little too far off to reveal what's going on among the inhabitants.

The Japanese government took several million dollars' worth of diamonds from the people to help finance the war during its closing days. In other words, rocks collected just before they went on the rocks.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

Socialists Slipping as They Fight Communist Battles.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27—The sudden, silent, unexplained degradation of Socialism simultaneously in France and Britain is greatly worrying the democratic Big Three nations. It may have an unsuspected effect upon the important world future.

The Communist accumulation of pluralities in the French elections is being advertised among us erroneously as a setback for the Catholic M.R.P.'s as a trend even toward conservatism there, or an empty Communist victory because the Stalinists received only 27% of the vote. These inferior fractional truths are misleading American public opposition.

Primarily the vote registered an exclusive setback for Socialism as the third strong group in French politics. The Catholics just about held their own, gaining as much as they lost.

What Communism gained was at the expense of the Socialists (who lost 27 home department). Communists gained 20, so the Socialists now have 93 seats in the new assembly.

Intellectuals Rebel

A mutiny of Socialist intellectuals in Britain was immediately thereafter staged against the Bevin-Attlee foreign policy of cooperation with the United States.

This also has been haphazardly interpreted domestically. Public American comment ran to the line that the final vote was 353 to 0 in favor of cooperation, so the attack failed and the assailants would watch their step hereafter.

Actually the mutiny resulted in 170 members of the government labor party abstaining from the vote—thus in typically British fashion registered their opposition to their own party government. At the same time from less than 200 of the 394 Labor seats in Parliament came support for Attlee for defense of Britain with his Conscription Act.

Obviously then the American foreign policy has been challenged by its two best foreign friends. The Communists have made initial inroads among our foreign Socialist supporters. The UN theory of freedom is faced with initial scuttling innuendoes.

This is difficult for the American public to imagine because we have no Socialist power of commensurate consequence and our natural tendency is to disregard everything which is not going our way.

But it may be the main reason why President Truman's traveling listening post, Myron Taylor hastily was dispatched without official explanation back to the Vatican for a brief mission. Taylor may pick up information to permit Mr. Truman to know more thoroughly symptoms of dissidence, but meanwhile this much may be truthfully said (which is not being said):

The foreign policy mutiny of the British intellectuals was led by an Oxford professor with no hope of winning but purely of testing possibilities for a later greater effort.

The London Times thought he would have only 50 votes to abstain; he got about 170. His people would deny they are pro-Communist. Their idea is to create and lead a world Socialist movement apart from both Russia and the United States, although they do not realize their very act is pro-Communist.

By tearing away from the United States, they are weakening the joint stand for democracy. By dividing opposition to Communism, they ease the way for its conquest.

Frankly the mutiny was rather stupid when measured against ordinary reasoning and was a bad international political blunder with the Big Four living under peace nullification by Russian vetoes. It has not been explained that the leaders were new to the ways of politics, having served only a short time in office.

Jan. 1 Date

Furthermore the Socialist British government will bring up its bills for seizure of British industries Jan. 1, and their irresponsible idealists were so thoroughly imbued with the notion to promoting the theory, they embarrassed their own government, accused its only friends and gave comfort to its only enemies. (The vesting date for government assumption of the coal mines is incidentally also Jan. 1.)

The significance of all this is the British are getting away from the knowledge there is only one basic issue in the world today: Freedom vs. dictatorship.

The forces of freedom are dividing or being divided. If the division goes far enough the Communist dictatorship will win. This is simple and clear. In truth, I believes the two manifestations in Britain and France reflect the latest inner Communist strategical attack upon the forces of freedom.

Actually I do not think the democratic world will ever accept Communism no matter how low and divided it gets. Our people do not want to reduce their wages and prospects to the unsouth Communist standard of poverty.

Socialism is only a receivership in bankruptcy for a nation. By fighting Communist battles, it will certainly lose even its own identity and be absorbed by the Communists, becoming merely a right-wing of the many Communist parties.

But such degrading of Socialism will very likely force the anti-Socialists to coalesce, the majority to get together to save itself. This certainly would not be called Fascism of any hue including the Red, because that is unpopular. Whatsoever it might be called it would mean joint action with possible loss of liberty, to fight against absorption of the majority by the backward and bankrupt, and it might lead to withdrawal of the United States more and more from world leadership for peace, Christianity and freedom.

Literally, This Would Be A Lockout

The National Association of Apartment Owners is considering withholding vacant units from the market.

Sponsors of the move argue what's good for the goose is gravy for the landlord.

Owners are endeavoring to persuade OPA to lift ceilings. This is a novelty inasmuch as it is usually the tenant who is trying to raise the rent.

A landlord strike might be worth while if it resulted in John L. Lewis being turned out in the cold. But then he's got his eye brows to keep him warm.

Personally, I doubt the idea will catch on. You can hoard shoes and ships and sealing wax . . . but nothing is as perishable as an unrented room.

Landlord strikes make good talking points, but they'll never prove practical, not until someone figures out a way to list an October vacancy on the November inventory.

He'll Be New Boss of TVA

By ESCAR THOMPSON

GORDON R. CLAPP

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—The man designated by President Truman to direct the Tennessee Valley Authority into what has been described officially as the "second phase" of its program is a mild-mannered, scholarly individual who says "I get most of my fun out of my job."

Gordon Rufus Clapp literally grew up with the government's power and flood control agency. He joined it fresh out of the University of Chicago where he had just won his Master of Arts degree in July, 1933. And he has been mastering the art of TVA ever since.

To the TVA official family, who know him as an expert in public administration, Clapp was a logical choice as successor to David E. Lilenthal when the latter was named by Mr. Truman as chairman of the nation's Atomic Energy Commission.

Seven Years at Helm

Clapp had been directing the administration of the sprawling agency for the last seven years as general manager and already was minutely acquainted with all its problems and ramifications.

The 41-year-old sandy-haired executive is described by his associates as an individual who never loses his temper.

"He never raises his voice even when he obviously is boiling. He actually talks more precisely when he is mad," one of them declared.

Clapp chose public administration as his career immediately after graduating from Lawrence College at Appleton, Wis., in 1927. He spent five years in administrative capacities there before entering the University of Chicago for post-graduate work.

The opportunity to join TVA came after he had completed the first year of work toward a doctorate. He became an assistant to the personnel director and had much to do with assembling the agency's staff.

Clapp is one of those executives who is never through with his work. Nightly when he leaves his offices here he takes a sheaf of papers to is Norris home.

Although a devoted family man—he is married and has two sons—Clap says he doesn't have much time to devote to his wife and sons.

Once a year, however, he likes to slip off to Keeneland race track at Lexington, Ky., and try his luck on the ponies. He seldom wagers more than two dollars on a race.

Annually he and his sons pile their dog and sleeping bags into a boat and sail off to one of the myriad lakes that dot Norris Lake for a camping trip.

Second Phase in Payoff

The Authority's "second phase," which former Chairman Lilienthal said the agency was entering, is as Clap sees it, aimed at helping place Tennessee Valley communities on a flourishing basis.

"This second phase is less dramatic than building dams, but it is the payoff from dam building," he declared.

"We have the largest and best integrated power system in the world. We must now mobilize the resources of the Tennessee river and help the people of the valley to make use of the river and its tools."

WHITE HOUSE NOW OPEN TO VISITORS

Post Mortem

By JOSEPH AND STEWART ALSOP

ATLANTIC CITY, Nov. 27—At the convention of the Congress of Industrial Organizations which has just come to an end, the anti-Communist progressives in the CIO have made real, if slow, progress against the CIO's Communists. Whether this process of erosion, working against the vastly disproportionate influence of the tiny minority of Communists in the CIO will continue depends largely on John L. Lewis and the 80th congress. The extreme conservatives in the new congress have been gleefully sharpening their axes, with the hope of decapitating the entire labor movement. Lewis, by want-only threatening the whole national economy, has been giving these axes a fine cutting edge.

Moreover, the CIO leadership has made it clear that new demands, to cover the rise in living costs, will be made on employers when current contracts come to an end. No one, probably not even Philip Murray, knows the extent to which these demands will be subject to compromise. But it is obvious that if they lead to a great new wave of strikes, the result can only be a deepening of the resentment toward labor which already exists in this country.

Almost every one (including some labor leaders) is agreed that some sort of labor legislation is not only inevitable but necessary. Yet another strike wave would surely add cohorts to those members of the new congress who are eager to legislate the labor movement out of existence.

World and Communist

If such legislation becomes a serious possibility, then it is mathematically certain that the attempt within the CIO to cut the Communists down to size will come to an end. The CIO, threatened from without, will have no alternative but to close ranks. The non-Communists will be forced, in sheer self-defense, into the welcoming arms of the Communists. This despite the fact that in the convention the hand of the great non-Communist majority was definitely strengthened.

Despite a few moments of excitement, the proceedings of the convention floor were not much more entertaining than the proceedings of any get-together of dentists, realtors or piccolo manufacturers. Yet in the corridors, in the hotel rooms and in the little groups which gathered on the floor between orations, there was an undercurrent of electric tension, generated by the Communist issue. It was the only issue on which the delegates were deeply divided, and therefore the only issue in which they were deeply interested. The question which is still being heatedly argued is: Who won?

The anti-Communist leaders claim, not final victory, but real progress toward victory. It is true that the resolution to the effect that the CIO "resented and rejected the efforts of the Communists" was seriously weakened by the inclusion of the phrase "and other parties." It is also true that it was made more than slightly ridiculous by the spectacle of Ben Gold, Communist president of the Fur Workers, who helped to frame the resolution, solemnly resenting himself. The new Communist party line, as one of the delegates remarked, seems to be, "I hate me."

But one anti-Communist CIO leader summed up the real meaning of the resolution when he remarked, "When I go back home, and the Commies start shouting 'Red-baiter,' I'll be able to say, 'Red-baiter, hell, this is official CIO policy.'"

Ready for Action

More important than the resolution was the fact that for the first time the great majority of anti-Communists in the CIO were on the offensive and were prepared to use their strength. Ben Gold and his allies on the committee which drew up the resolution made a determined attempt to so word it as to render it entirely meaningless. The Communists and their friends did not like the call for international inspection in the otherwise weak foreign policy resolution. They did not like the unseating from the executive board of Reid Robinson, dubious president of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers. They wanted the scalp of James Carey, CIO secretary-treasurer, and one of the ablest of the anti-Communist leaders.

In all these matters and others, they were disappointed. They were disappointed because the anti-Communists were willing to fight if it came to a showdown, and the Communists knew that if it came to an open fight they would lose.

Some of the anti-Communist leaders would certainly have welcomed such a showdown. But Philip Murray, threatened on the one hand by John L. Lewis and the AFL and on the other by a hostile congress, did not want an open fight.

Such a fight might have torn the whole CIO apart, and Murray has succeeded in preventing it. Yet he has also succeeded in making a start, however small, toward

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Friday, Nov. 27, 1936.

President Roosevelt, pausing at Rio Janeiro on his voyage of inter-American peace, told a joint session of Brazil's congress "there is no American conflict that cannot be settled by orderly and peaceful means."

The first number assigned by the the social security board to a Marion worker was sent out from the postoffice to Robert E. Navin of 429 Oak street, an employe of the Farmers Implement & Supply Co.

Sons were born to Mr. and Mrs. Gottlieb Speidel of Oak street and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Meister of West Pleasant street.

Mrs. Carson B. Shetterly took over her duties as head of District No. 3, Auxiliary to the United Spanish War Veterans, at a meeting of Betsy Ross auxiliary. It was planned to hold the 1937 district meeting in Marion.

The following new members were enrolled at a meeting of the Youth Temperance Council at the Y. M. C. A.: Mrs. Harold Stewart, Misses Dorothy Peters, Virginia Virden, Glenna Mae Baughman, Annabel Virden, Anita Christ, Helen Linton, Hazel Layman, Joy LaRue, Iola Heth, Velma Cook, Pauline Kidd, Virginia Waring and Kathryn Houk, Wilbur Layman, Donald Cook, Willard Durfey, Carl Roop Jr., Robert Humphreys and George Schoechle.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Saturday, Nov. 27, 1926.

Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, widow of Rev. Edward Stevens Hall, took the witness stand at Somerville, N. J. and denied that she had anything to do with the murder of her husband and his choir singer, Mrs. Eleanor Mills.

Offices of the C. D. & M. Electric Light & Power company were moved from the second floor of the Eagles building on West Center street to the Marion building on South Main street. Work was started at once in the Eagles' building rooms preparing them for occupancy by city officials by Jan. 1.

Mrs. Walter Malo and Miss Goldie Hendrickson entertained a company of guests at Miss Hendrickson's home on Harrison street, honoring Miss Lillian Malo on her birthday anniversary.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

A Coal King Speaks

What do I care for the coalless bins?
What if the kids are cold?
I am the boss and the lord of all;
Nothing can break my hold.
What if the homes of the land are sad,
Burdened and dark and bleak?
Yours is the duty to stand the gaff,
Once I resolve to speak!

II

Mansion and hovel, estate or shack
Kept from the warmth and light...
What's it to me when I'm in a mood
Dark as the blackest night?
Factories halted and smokeless stacks
Chilling the countryside ...
Nothing to me when I want my way
Arrogant in my pride!

III

Business disrupted and progress stopped,
Chaos across the land ...
Boy, but it's fun to a guy like me
Once I assume command:
Things in a snarl in a crucial day....
Snafu as bright hopes die....
What do I care when to gain my point
I hoist the stop sign high?

IV

Government hog-tied and made a joke
Right down my alley, boy!
When I can hamstring our Uncle Sam
That is my special and joy!
Presidents leered at, with thumb at nose;
Jeers for an office great....
All, in my stride when I get a whim
I am the chief of state!

V

Cabinets laughed at and leaders scorned ...
Law made to seem a joke....
That's when my rule means the most to me—
Courts are a lot of "hoke"!
Congress regarded with arrogance—
Held in contempt quite low—
This is the routine observed by me
Every four months or so!

VI

Railroads made helpless....the stranded crowds
Workers harassed and worn....
Hospitals chilled by my flat decrees....
Bah! They're my special scorn
My country crippled and torn apart—
Blitzed in a trying hour....
What if it is? I'm a mighty king—
Second to none in power!

This is the time of year when hundreds of race horses are going south for their owners' health.

Life recently told the story of A. C. Gilbert, famous toy maker, who ran a half dozen card tricks into a billion dollar industry. It took us away back to our kid days when we wanted to be a cartoonist, and did Gilbert's first illustrated catalogue. Consultations were held in the Hof Brau back home. We think we asked the high rate of a dollar an allustration and got it. We then went out to a little shack at the foot of West Rock in which Gilbert made his first toys, tricks and games. "A.C.," a few years out of college, was risking his all in the business and was pretty nervous. (We were fearful for our dollar-a-picture income.)

Life left out a pretty amusing chapter in Gilbert's life: the night he put on a magician's show at the local theater, while in college, and everything went so wrong that we always thought the show provided the idea for Helka-poppin.

Of the countless tales of Jimmy Walker's quick wit, we find few to top his retort when a reformer was at City Hall opposing the purchase of a new auto, on the ground the old one had traveled only 7,000 miles.

"Do you think 7,000 miles too far for a car to go?" demanded the speaker.

"Not if you are in it," replied Jimmy.

How To Clean a Cat

By TRUMAN TWILL

Here was this subscriber to the paper asking the Man Who Knows All how to clean a cat's fur, and the Man answered that you rub it gently but thoroughly with one cup of granulated corn meal to which has been added a pinch of fine grape seed. Repeat this several times, he said, using the same corn meal. This will not only clean the fur, he said, signing off, but will also remove fleas.

We looked thoughtfully after reading this at T. Manville the tomcat, asleep on his back in the middle of the old chair with the new slip cover, the flowered one with the light background. Under him was a dirty place, where he had rubbed off the soot that helps keep him black. There was another dirty spot on the bedspread upstairs.

"Step over here, Buster," we suggested, throwing a magazine to wake him up. "We have work to do. It says here in the paper that granulated corn meal will dry-clean you—that and a pinch of fine grape seed. Yoohoo, House Mother, where do you hide the fine grape seed? Also the granulated corn meal?"

Fortunately, House Mother had stepped down to the newest neighborhood saloon for a pinch of cream of tartar. She would have had no answer anyway. So we substituted one cup of Cream of Wheat and added a pinch of Grape Nuts, which seemed like a reasonable makeshift. "Easy, Buster," we admonished, cracking him heavily on the head to slow down his anticipated reaction, "we are going to make you neat and tidy."

Though stunned, T. Manville took a dim view of the proceedings. After clubbing him out of his hiding place under the refrigerator and putting antiseptic on our scratches, we strapped him to the ironing board with adhesive tape and went to work. Reconciled to the whimsey of which he was a victim, he finally gave in and nabbed all the Grape Nuts that fell within reach. The Cream of Wheat he didn't touch, however, and no one could blame him. It was too sticky. Perspiration and antiseptic solution had damaged it, not to mention dirt.

That was when House Mother came home. The Cream of Wheat that wasn't plastered on T. Manville's fur was on the kitchen floor. It was an awkward moment. Things were not going well. The explanations weren't convincing. She stepped to the telephone to call the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. "I don't care whether you read it in the paper or not," she snapped. "It's silly. On second thought, I think I should call the editor. Fine grape seed. Granulated corn meal. Look at him. It will take weeks to get him back in shape."

Probably it will. Especially where the adhesive tape stuck to his fur. He's nice and clean there—clean as a whistle. We keep wondering how that other cat owner made out. There must be some better way to clean a cat.

G.O.P. MAY SPEND $1,000,000 IN 1947

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON Nov. 27—The national committee will be asked at its meeting Dec. 5 to O.K. the nearly a million dollar G.O.P ball rolling campaign less 1947.

Party officials said they expect a budget ranging from $1 000 000 to be laid before the group. The idea of a drive for the 1948 campaign came the organization participated in this year's sweeping Republican control.

Officials of such size would enable the group to continue uninterrupted flow of research and political information to G.O.P members of congress during the dates this year.

Connected with the results of the balloting, committee officials expected to ask national chairman B. Carroll Reece to remain at the helm. If so, he will continue in the post as Republican can presidential campaign chosen in the early part of 1948.

Reece including publicity director William C. Murphy and Herbert Brownell, liaison man with congress, probably will be asked to stay on.

Most of U. S. To Get Plenty of Sunshine For Thanksgiving

By The Associated Press

Rain, snow, sub-freezing and below zero temperatures were on today's weather map but plenty of sunshine for most of the nation was forecast for Thanksgiving Day.

A new mass of cold air from Canada spread through the northern plains states and upper Mississippi valley and temperatures dropped to below zero in northern Minnesota Four to eight inches of new snow had fallen in South Dakota and spread rapidly eastward across Minnesota and northern Iowa into Wisconsin.

The rain area which extended through the Ohio and lower Mississippi valleys yesterday moved eastward and rain was reported falling from Maine to Georgia with temperatures dropping as much as 20 degrees in some sections.

Mild weather continued in the extreme southeastern part of the country.

Although forecasters said temperatures tomorrow would be about normal in most sections colder weather was predicted in the central and northern plains states, the Great Lakes region and most of the Ohio valley. Partly cloudy and rather cold weather was forecast for the northern New England area.

The term "bit," which is a common expression in New Mexico was derived when the early Spanish clipped silver doubloons into eight equal parts, each one being a "real." Thus the terms two-bits, four-bits

Dead Man's Tattoo Austrian Dog Tags, Son Tells Officials

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 27 — Police officials and language experts today had an answer to the cryptic tattoo found on the arm of an aged man, who died Sunday and for a time was unidentified

It was nothing more than an Austro-Hungarian version of U. S Army "dog tags."

Daniel Novakov of Cincinnati, who identified the man as his 67-year-old father, Vlada, gave this version of the tattoo, which had stumped the experts

KJKIRNXS — Serbian abbreviation meaning 'emperor and king's army'

2 ER KOMP—2nd company.

VLADA—His given name.

NOVAKOV—His surname

DNHEP—Serbian for the German word, diener, meaning 'servant,' or, in a military sense, equivalent to "private"

1909—The year of his enlistment

The son said his father had served in the Austro-Hungarian army in 1909 and it was a fad among soldiers to have their name, company and date of enlistment tattooed on their arms.

Coroner Herbert P. Lyle said language experts were at a disadvantage studying the tattoo's meaning since the lettering was indistinct and early copies, made by deputies, were incorrect

He said they had copied "2 ER KOMP" as "VERAKOMP," and the name "VLADA" appeared to them as "BAAA"

"NOVAKOV" was copied as "HOBOKOB" and "DNHEP" as "AHNEP."

The man died on a street car and was unidentified for nearly three days

LABOR BEATING JURY ACTION CONCLUDED

By The Associated Press

ELYRIA, O, Nov. 27 — Although the Lorain county grand jury has concluded its probe into the beating of five nonunion workers, county prosecutor William G. Wickens reported today that investigation would continue

Clarence D. Ebersole, 43, of Parma, who was indicted by the jury, was released under $17,500 bond yesterday after pleading innocent to charges of inciting a riot, malicious destruction of property and blackmail.

Wickens said the blackmail charge was based on allegations that Ebersole, an organizer for the AFL Operating Engineers Union, threatened the workers for two days before they were attacked near here on Oct. 3. Some of the machinery with which they were working in laying a gas line was destroyed in the assault

Although only one person was indicted by the jury, Wickens said information "of some value" had been obtained through questioning of witnesses.

By Order of Uncle Sam!

During the Emergency
ELECTRICITY MUST NOT BE USED FOR THE PURPOSES HERE SPECIFIED

To Our Customers:

"Brown-outs" on the systems of coal-burning electric utilities in 18 states east of the Mississippi and in the District of Columbia, Iowa, Minnesota and Missouri were ordered November 22 by the Civilian Production Administration.

CPA Administrator John D. Small said the action was taken to forestall breakdown of essential public utility systems and to maintain equitable distribution of electric current to the nation's homes and industries during the emergency resulting from work stoppages in soft coal mines.

In compliance with the order of the Civilian Production Administration, the following notice is published by The Ohio Public Service Company.

EFFECTIVE AT 6 P. M., MONDAY, NOVEMBER 25
no consumer shall use electricity for any of the following purposes:

(1) Refrigeration for air-conditioning except to the extent essential for industrial processes or for health and safety.

(2) Outdoor and indoor advertising and promotional lighting.

(3) Outdoor display and flood lighting except to the extent necessary for the conduct of outdoor business or services.

(4) Outdoor or indoor decorative and ornamental lighting.

(5) Show window or show case lighting.

(6) Marquee lighting in excess of 60 watts for each marquee.

(7) White way street lighting in excess of the amount determined by local public authority to be necessary for public safety.

(8) Outdoor or indoor sign lighting except for
(i) Directional or identification signs required for fire and police protection, traffic control, transportation terminals, or hospitals, or directional or identification lighting for any similar essential public services;
(ii) Directional or identification signs using not more than 60 watts per establishment, for doctors and for hotels and other public lodging establishments.

(9) Outdoor entrance lighting, except the minimum essential for public health and safety and then not more than 60 watts per entrance.

(10) Any other form of general outdoor or indoor illumination in or about any commercial, industrial or other non-residential establishment in excess of 75 per cent of the illumination normally used.

(11) In excess of 75 per cent of the normal passenger elevator or escalator service in any building having more than one passenger elevator or escalator.

The CPA further says:

Notice. Each electric supplier shall, as soon as practicable, notify its consumers by publication or otherwise of the uses of electricity prohibited or curtailed by this order. If any electric supplier has knowledge of a violation of this order by a person to whom it supplies electricity, it shall inform the person of the violation unless it has evidence that the person has been informed of the violation in some other manner. If the violation is continued, the electric supplier shall notify the person in writing of the specific terms of the order which apply and of the penalties prescribed for violation and shall mail a copy of the notice to the regional compliance office of the CPA for the area in which the consumer is located.

Violations. When the Civilian Production Administration determines that any person is using electricity in violation of this order, it may direct the electric supplier serving such person to disconnect service and prescribe the conditions under which service may be reconnected. In addition, any person who wilfully violates any provision of this order or who in connection with this order wilfully conceals a material fact or furnishes false information to any department or agency of the United States is guilty of a crime and upon conviction may be punished by fine or imprisonment.

DON'T WASTE ELECTRICITY! HELP SAVE VITAL COAL!

BANDIT ROBS CAFE NEAR TIFFIN OF $159

By The Associated Press

TIFFIN, O., Nov. 27—An armed robber, wearing a handkerchief over his face, entered a restaurant on U. S. Route 224, just west of the city early today and obtained $159 from owner Wilson Harris and 13 patrons.

Harris was forced to remove $100 from the cash register while the patrons, including four girls, were ordered to line up against a wall and throw their money on a table.

The victims told Sheriff George R. Steinmetz that another man stood guard at the rear door while a third waited at the wheel of the getaway car. It was the first robbery in Seneca county in nearly a decade.

VIRGINIA OFFICIAL HAS TROUBLE FINDING LEWIS

Told Mine Leader Not at Home To Get Summons.

By The Associated Press

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Nov. 27—A Virginia official who sought to serve a new legal complaint on John L. Lewis reported today he had been advised that the United Mine Workers' chief spent the night away from his home here.

J. F. Moriarity, deputy city sergeant, appeared early this morning at Lewis' home with the summons. But, later, he told reporters that a servant at the residence informed him that Lewis had not stayed there last night.

The summons directs Lewis to appear Monday before the Virginia state corporation commission to show why the United Mine Workers' union should not be enjoined from selling memberships, as a violation of the Virginia securities law.

"If I don't serve the papers today," Moriarity said, "Lewis will find them tacked on his door tonight.

"I've served papers on Lewis before.. He never dodges anything."

If Lewis spent the night in Washington, across the Potomac river from Alexandria, he apparently returned there after going home late yesterday afternoon. Newsmen saw him enter his residence about 5 p. m.

N. Y. MARKET EDGES FORWARD GINGERLY

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 27 — Stocks edged forward gingerly in today's market as the suspension of bituminous mining continued its sobering influence.

With many investors regarding the list as oversold and ripe for an extension of the recovery move, brokers said bidding enthusiasm waned while the outcome of the government's court action in the coal crisis and of reported efforts to institute settlement negotiations was awaited. A new flood of year-end dividend declarations provided support here and there, while tax sales and switching were reported gaining in volume.

Steels improved at a fairly active opening and narrow gains spread to motors, metals and some utilities as dealings quieted. Near the fourth hour many issues showed improvement of fractions to 2 points.

Among leaders of the advance were U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, Republic Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Chrysler, General Motors, Chesapeake and Ohio, Du Pont, Eastman Kodak, Southern Railway, Anaconda Copper, International Nickel and Distillers Corp. Others ahead were Montgomery Ward, Woolworth, Goudrich, Air Reduction, Allied Chemical, American Smelting, Texas Co. and Great Northern preferred.

Rail bonds advanced. Commodities were mixed.

Curb gainers included Middle West Corp., Humble Oil, International Petroleum, Standard Power and Light, Textron and American Gas and Electric.

ployment of steel workers was expected to reach 20,000 today because of the coal shortage, several fabricating plants announced they would suspend operations until Monday.

At Fremont a shortage of pig iron caused the Fremont Foundry Co. to halt production by its 180 employes, with reopening tentatively scheduled for Monday.

While most Ohio cities complied with a civilian production administration request for a brownout, Mayor James A. Rhodes of Columbus continued his stand that such action was "unnecessary in Columbus at this time."

The mayor pointed to an 88-day supply of coal held by the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co., and said the city's experience during wartime brownouts was that they "saved little coal."

"To turn off street lights will only breed crime and increase traffic hazards," the mayor said.

THIEF HAS TROUBLE

Can't Make Up Mind on Where To Cache Haul.

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Nov. 27 — A thief who had trouble making up his mind got away with $125.

The manager of a chain restaurant received this telephone call last night, purportedly from her boss: "I expect a robbery. Take the money and put it in a flour barrel in the basement."

A few minutes later, another call, and the same voice; "I've changed my mind. Put that money in a tin can at the rear door."

She followed instructions, but checked later and found the money gone from the can.

3 Calls Answered By City Firemen

Firemen were called to the residence of Norval Foreman of 313 South Grand avenue at 5:13 p. m. yesterday when a bottle of paint remover placed too close to the furnace exploded, firemen reported today. Mr. Foreman attempted to smother the fire with an overcoat before calling the fire department. Damage to the overcoat was estimated at $25. Engine companies one and four responded.

A second run was made seven minutes later to the home of J. A. Davis of 561 Blaine avenue when neighbors saw steam coming out of a soil pipe and thought the house was on fire. firemen reported. Engine companies two and four answered the call.

Slight smoke damage resulted at the home of Mrs. H. K. Anderson of 299 Duluth avenue at 9:44 a. m. today when a furnace pipe broke and the house was filled with smoke. The call was answered by the chief's car.

Washing Machine Due Soon but Soap Stolen

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 27 — The washing machine Mrs. Mary Karedis has been awaiting several months is scheduled to be delivered almost any day now, but she's not happy—her hoard of soap is gone.

She told police that burglars entered the basement storeroom of her home and stole 50 boxes of soapflakes, and two cases of bar soap.

The soap collection, she said, was acquired by standing in various lines over a period of two years.

Service Clubs Hear Hospital Official

Climaxing the weekly meeting of the Rotary club at Hotel Harding, Tuesday, was a talk on "Formula for Freedom," by Dr. Carroll Lewis, general superintendent at White Cross hospital, Columbus. Kiwanians joined with Rotarians since the date for the regular Kiwanis club meeting falls on Thanksgiving day.

Dr. Lewis, a former lieutenant colonel, based his talk on his experience in Europe as a welfare officer in the First U. S. Army. He pointed out that various peoples are fundamentally different and mentioned characteristics of the British and French.

He said that while Russia is the richest country in natural resources, the United States has rich natural resources plus freedom. He referred to our two-party system as the one that really works for the best, more so than one party such as Germany had, or 13 as the French have.

"Freedom," declared Dr. Lewis, "has made our nation great." He said our soldiers were good because they were free men, fighting for freedom. He explained that the Russians have lost millions of people, and for that reason, he believes, they are not planning on making war now or for many years. What they are doing, in Dr. Lewis' opinion, is to annoy us.

Guests of the club included Richard Norris of Hibbing, Minn., Bob Kline of Columbus, manager of the Marion Cardinals baseball team, Earl S. Lohr of Lancaster, Pa., and Charles Kirk, visiting Rotarian from Findlay.

Dr. A. J. Wagner announced the annual service club football banquet for the Harding and St. Mary football teams for next Tuesday.

what he called "senseless arrest of persons" in the campaign "at the instance of some fanatic or group of fanatics."

Dr. Nygaard said the "ministers feel the only one who can make a farce of justice in the city is the municipal judge. It is obvious he is trying to say that we inspired these arrests, when actually they were made to embarrass us."

The minister called attention to a paid newspaper advertisement of the pastors Monday which said:

"The people of Steubenville are too intelligent to imagine that the raid which recently was staged * * * has cleaned up the city. Not a single organized house of prostitution was included. The arrests of the small fry will not clean up Steubenville. If we are appointed as special police we propose to strike at the big shots."

Judge Downer, following the acquittal of a man on a loitering charge, had said that "if some person or group of persons proposes making a continuous farce of public justice, there must be some malicious intent on the part of that person."

Cleveland Teachers Demand $600 Raise

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Nov. 27 — The Cleveland education board had notice today of a $600 annual salary increase to be sought by members of the Cleveland AFL Teachers Union.

In a session in which the word "strike" was tossed about, some 300 members of the union voted last night to demand the increase and an eventual elevation of their wage scale from a top of $3,750 to $5,000.

The union, which claims to represent 2,000 of the school system's 3,385 teachers, said it would ask that $200 of the increase be paid next pay day, Dec. 20, and the rest in monthly installments beginning in January.

counsel) may say there is no labor dispute, but that denies the elementary facts," Padway replied.

Padway also challenged the court's right to try Lewis for contempt.

"If the Norris-LaGuardia act is applicable, then this court had no right to issue the contempt ruling," Padway declared.

Padway arose after Judge T. Alan Goldsborough decided that the question of dismissing the contempt citation against the United Mine Workers' president should be taken up first.

Lewis Sits Stolidly

Lewis sat stolidly behind a battery of union lawyers. At issue was whether he should be punished for permitting his 400,000 soft coal miners to quit work last Wednesday, despite a court order.

The small courtroom was so crowded that only 12 spectators were able to find seats. Hundreds of disappointed curiosity seekers were left outside in the corridors.

Goldsborough announced it had been suggested that Lewis "might be entitled to the right" of a regular jury trial. Accordingly, the judge said he was considering empaneling a jury with full power to convict or acquit the union chieftain.

U. S. Opposes Move

Assistant Attorney General John F. Sonnett, chief government counsel, quickly told the court government contends Lewis has no such right.

Previously, Goldsborough had ordered that the jury be merely advisory. On that basis he either could adopt or reject its verdict as he chose.

Selection of a jury was delayed, however, by the arguments on whether the case should be thrown out.

After relating how the Norris-La Guardia act had been drawn by congress specifically to protect unions from being deprived of their economic weapons through restraining orders and injunctions, Padway called attention to Goldsborough's stop-strike order served on Lewis Nov. 18.

Command To Go To Work

"If there ever was a command to go back to work, this order commands that very thing," Padway declared.

The government contends that the Norris-LaGuardia act does not apply when the employer is the government as in the case of the coal mines.

It was Padway's first appearance in the case, which promised to develop into an historic legal battle affecting broad principles of labor policy.

Lewis conferred with Padway at United Mine Workers headquarters a half hour before he was due in court. The mine workers leader asked reporters to leave the lobby of the union building so he and Padway could talk privately.

On arriving in the court room at 9:49 a. m., Lewis stopped inside the door and deposited his coat, cane and big black hat on a window ledge.

Flanked by Lawyers

The president of 400,000 United Mine Workers who quit the pits after Lewis notified Secretary of Interior J. A. Krug on Nov. 15 that their working contract with the government was "terminated" on Nov. 20 discussed with aides briefly where he would sit. Then he sank slowly into a chair behind eight union lawyers.

His unsmiling profile was to the spectators.

If convicted of contempt for ignoring Judge Goldsborough's order of Nov. 18 that he withdraw the contract cancellation notice, Lewis faces a possible jail term and fines which could bite deeply into his own pocket and the union's $13,500,000 treasury.

Jury May Get Power

Judge Goldsborough announced at the outset he was considering giving the jury full power to acquit or convict Lewis of the contempt charge.

The judge disclosed also that the UMW president yesterday filed a motion asking the court to dismiss its contempt citation, which was issued against him last Thursday.

William S. Hennessy, deputy U. S. marshal, told reporters that two panels of 23 jurors had been brought into the court. Veniremen from nine other federal panels were available for call, he added, in event the necessary 12 were not drawn from the first two groups. All of the panels had been previously sworn in for federal court duty, both civil and criminal.

12 Spectators Seated

One section of the small courtroom—which seats only 150 people—was assigned to the prospective jurors and the other to attorneys not connected with the case and to the press.

Only 12 spectators got seats, leaving more than 100 clamoring outside the main door.

As trial day arrived for the bulky miners' leader, an official acquainted with the government's preparations said a corps of economists has compiled data on the ominous probable impact of the strike on post war recovery.

The "catastrophic" prediction was in the material, but it may be next week before it is brought out in a trial which may extend for days, or even weeks.

Must Select Jury

The first business was the selection of an advisory jury to sit with federal district Judge T. Alan Goldsborough in the case.

Goldsborough will not be bound by the jury's recommendations, however, when he decides at the end of the trial whether Lewis should be held in contempt of court for disregarding the judge's order of last week to call off termination of the United Mine Workers contract with the government.

One of the points the case hinges on is whether or not Lewis had a right to declare the contract terminated.. The government contends he did not. The contract is binding so long as the government holds possession of the mines which it seized last spring to end a 59-day strike.

Lewis' Contends He's Right

Another point is whether the Norris-La Guardia act of 1932 outlaws issuance of the restraining order Judge Goldsborough issued to Lewis. Attorneys for Lewis contend it does. The government takes an opposite view.

Repercussions were widespread as the strike went into its seventh day:

More than 70,000 workers in coal-burning industries already were idle and jobs of additional thousands were jeopardized as coal stocks shrank.

Steel Falls Off

The steel industry reported 41 of its 227 blast furnaces banked and future cutbacks were scheduled.

Railroads began furloughing men.

Some schools and colleges extended the Thanksgiving recess to conserve coal.

Agriculture department officials said a prolonged coal strike, crippling transportation and food processing plants, would endanger the food supplies, particularly in big cities.

Rumors Rife

In the 48 hours before opening of the trial, rumors were rife of behind-the-scenes maneuvering toward an agreement between Lewis and the mine owners that would end the strike and return the mines from government to private operation.

There was nothing tangible to support the reports and some of those named in the rumor mill as principals in the maneuvers denied they knew anything about them.

Men close to President Truman said they had no hand in any such negotiations. They said that for the present the government's only action is pressing the case against Lewis.

Ancient rabbis recommended warm goat's milk every morning as a remedy for bronchitis and cardiac pains.

Russian Business All Owned By People but Run by Government

...of five articles about Russian life and government ...ess organization by Eddy Gilmore who has lived in the ...on for the past five years as Associated Press Chief of ... Moscow.

By EDDY GILMORE

...W Nov. 27—In the U. ... people own all busi... the government, as a ... of the people, oper... siness.

... no such thing as a man ... siness, as he is known ... States, and there ... to be any.

... no such thing as a pri... of public utility. They ... the people and are op... the state at cheap rates. ...ans the state operates ..., busses, streetcars, gas and electricity plants, telephones and water works.

One of the great aims of the soviets is to bring electricity to every family, whether it lives in a village in the Arctic waste or in a cabin in the high Pamirs. The war greatly disrupted the work, but thousands upon thousands of villages do have electricity. All towns and cities have it at varying rates, all very low. A family with a two-room apartment pays about $1.50 for a month's service. Bills are sent out monthly and are paid at special offices.

Electricity was rationed during the war and is still rationed. If a Russian goes over his limit he has to pay a fine, which is roughly double his bill.

Soviet citizens have both plant and natural gas—both very cheap, a family paying about $1 to $1.50 a month for the service.

Water Cheapest Item

Water is one of the cheapest items in the country. A family with a two-room apartment pays about 50 cents to $1 at most for a month's supply. All apartments and houses in cities have water. Thousands of towns have it, but in villages it comes from wells and springs.

A telephone costs about 80 cents monthly for private service. Large numbers of people do not have private phones, and the usual case is for several families to share one phone. They split the cost.

There is a long distance service and a radio telephone which extends to distant areas of the U. S. S. R. and to foreign countries. The rates for Russians are not high.

Most apartment houses are centrally heated, with the heat paid for by the various families.

4 Classes of Rail Travel

Russia's railway system is very far-flung, covering a sixth of the earth's land surface. There are four ways to ride in varying degrees of comfort. The traveller gets what he can and pays for it, just as in the United States.

Most Americans understand that railways, hotels and airlines are operated by the government but do not know the story of the people who operate shoe shine stands, ice cream parlors or drive taxis and trucks.

Shoe shiners and taxi drivers come as close as any to being private operators, but they are far from the rugged individualists in American private business.

Shoe shine stand operators belong to a cartel or trust. They draw their supplies from the trusts and pay a stipulated percenage of their earnings back to these trusts. There are no private shiners.

Not Individual Capitalists

There are shoemakers and dress makers, but these people are not individual capitalists. They pay a definite tax, buy their materials, and make returns even though they operate from their homes.

Of course, if you know a woman adept with the needle and you take her a piece of cloth and a pattern and she knocks you out a suit or dress, they money is hers. Such dressmakers, however, have a regular job and any extra-curricula activities are carried out definitely in spare time.

Moscow's biggest stores are operated by the state. They have managers, scores of clerks, cashiers, bookkkeepers who draw state salaries.

Stores which do some of the biggest business are known as "commercial food stores." These are state-operated grocery stores selling foodstuffs at prices higher than ration stores.

"Commission Stores"

Then there are so-called "commission stores," a sort of pawn shop. If you want to sell your suit you go to one of these stores. The manager of the suit department makes an appraisal at the price for which he thinks he can sell it. If you agree, he takes the suit and gives you a receipt. When he sells it he takes the state's percentage for the transaction, and you get the rest.

Then there are "closed shops," operated for special societies, clubs or organizations whose members operate them. You have to be a member to buy in one of these, but they are very few in number.

There are also consumer cooperatives which are going to have hundreds of stores in cities and will compete directly with the state stores. They will not be allowed to sell at higher prices than state stores, but if they can sell for less, they are going to get a lot of business.

Great Plans Made

Great plans are being made for these. They already operate very broadly in villages throughout the country, much like cooperatives in many other countries. They receive a charter from the central union. To buy in a cooperative store you become a member. Membership is set at a specific figure, and one is free to belong or not.

All great factories in Russia are operated by the state through trusts which get their authority from various ministries. They have factory managers and foremen just as in the United States. These men are paid salaries, with a sliding scale for good production and savings generally a good factory manager can earn lots of money—but he better be good and stay good. The state demands excellent production.

As We Give Thanks

In a world where millions still face starvation and want, America has so much for which we should be thankful.

Our harvests have been more than bountiful. There is employment for all who desire it. We have in our grasp all that is necessary to enjoy the greatest prosperity the world ever has known. As we give thanks for these blessings, let us also pray for the wisdom to put them to their greatest use—to cease petty bickering—and really enjoy the benefits that are at our command.

County League Cage Warfare Opens Tonight with 4 Battles Booked

LaRue, Pleasant Only Teams Not Active in Loop Struggles

Dash To Overtake Green Camp's Gun Jumping Lead Opens in Earnest.

Marion county basketball teams will start the county league rolling tonight with four games scheduled. One game was played last night between Green Camp and Kirkpatrick and tonight all the other squads except LaRue and Pleasant will be active. As a result of their 38-23 win Green Camp now leads the league. However, this is just temporary as after tonight there will be five leaders and five teams in the runner-up spot.

Looking like a strong possible contender for the county championship, Caledonia's varsity club in winning their first three out-of-league games rolled up 163 points against 93 for their opponents and their reserves also have been undefeated. Squads which fell before them are Edison, Iberia, and Waldo.

3 Lettermen Back

Caledonia this season has three players who won letters with the squad last season and has a letterman from Harpster. The players who were with the squad last year are Herbert Roges, Eugene Freet, and John Robertson. Kenneth Comstock is the aquired letterman. They will entertain Prospect tonight.

Prospect looks like a capable opponent for them and will not be awed by their past record according to Coach Chester Hurd. Out of the 16 players who are on his squad four won letters last season. These players are Jim and Ralph Long, brothers; Jack Penry, and Howard Cameron. Prospect opened their season dropping one to Delaware 33-26 but the team at the time had very little organization.

Coach Hurd, who does not use a system which puts the emphasis on player positions, says that he will use tall boys under the basket, letting the smaller men bring the ball in. This is his first season at Prospect and prior to coming to the school he coached at Sunbury, turning out a Delaware county championship team in 1944.

Sees Claridon Repeating

John W. Pearson, Claridon coach, believes that his squad will repeat as the county champs again this season and his reasons are well founded. He has three regulars back from last year's team which won 24 games while dropping only three. These players are Jim Ruth, Gene Ruth, and Nolan Belknap. Other members who constitute the varsity are Dale Irey, Bob Stoner, Bob Pickett, Glen Chapman, Arthur Creasap, Roy Smith, Jue Lawerence, Paul McChesney, and Charles Ruth.

The team besides having heighth will be fast and he plans to operate with a give-and-go system. In explaining this bit of strategy, he said that it constitutes giving his boys the ball and watching them go. This is Pearson's first year at the school and previously he was with a Pennsylvania school. Claridon will play at Meeker tonight.

Morral at Waldo

Waldo with a pre-league record of two losses and a win will entertain a Morral squad with a record of two wins against no losses. Waldo is coached by Frank Furniss who is building his team around four lettermen and a returned serviceman. The returnees are Dick Schultz, Dick Sims, Carl Salyer, and Bruce Baker. The veteran who played reserve ball for the school two years ago is Dick Loyer.

At Morral Coach Norman Weston has all the experienced players he could hope for with seven of them to choose from for his first squad.

These players are Howard Conley, Jim Conley, Don Saxton, Pete Merrit, Fred Bear, Ed Schertzer, and Gene Randel. Randel is the stand-out for the team so far this season having in two games scored 55 points.

Scored 30 Points

Against Iberia he scored 32 points or more than then the complete Iberia team. Morral's record for their first two games is a 50 to 38 downing of Harpster and a 57 to 28 win over Iberia. They use a zone defense and specialize in the fast break.

The other league game to be held tonight will see New Bloomington going to Martel. Both schools have played before tonight and Martel will have the better record of the teams engaging in the contest. Martel has three lettermen. They are Bill Loyer, Jim Downs, and Raymond Pangborne.

Chesterville Cagers Down Centerburg 47-42

Special to The Star

Playing at Centerburg last night Chesterville set their hosts down 47 to 42 in the varsity contest. Previously the visiting reserves had triumphed 14 to 12 in a low-scoring, hotly-contested match.

CABBIES TO CLOSE YEAR TOMORROW

Revive Thanksgiving Tilt Playing Host to 740 A.C.'s.

Tomorrow afternoon a traditional fall affair will be revived for Marion when Safety Cab A. C.'s semi-professional football squad meets the highly touted 740 A. C.'s from Columbus.

This will be contest number 12 for the Cabbies and their last of the season. Actually it will be their 14th scheduled game but because of the fact that the Columbus Rens never arrived in Marion, this is number 13.

The 740 A. C.'s were formerly the Columbus city champs but dropped a contest recently to knock them out of that favored spot. This was the first contest that the colored club had lost this season and the first time that they had been beaten in two years of semi-pro competition.

This team still promises to be one of the most formidible opponents the Cabbies have met this season and, although it has been definitely established that they are not invincible their record is better than the Marion club's thus making them pregame favorites.

The Cabbies lost their last two games by very close margins and will be out to make the breaks work for them this time.

GREEN CAMP BELTS KIRKPATRICK 38-23

Southerners Take Lead in Marion County League.

Sparked by Hensel, who contributed 16 points, the Green Camp Panthers jumped off to an early lead in the Marion county cage league last night at Kirkpatrick by belting the host team 38 to 23. Long had 9 points for the Panthers and Frank of Kirk had 13 points to his credit.

It was Green Camp all the way as the victors carved out an early lead and were never threatened. Green Camp led 16-11 at half time. The new league pace setters poured it on in the final frame.

Green Camp reserves made it unanimous with a 26 to 16 win over the Kirkpatrick Juniors.

In a junior high game Grand Prairie won 35 to 12 over Kirkpatrick.

Immortal Babe Ruth Enters N. Y. Hospital

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 27—George Herman (Babe) Ruth, baseball's home run king, was in French hospital today for observation to determine the cause of persistent headaches he has suffered for more than a week.

Hospital authorities declined to discuss his case except to report his condition fair. Ruth is 52.

His daughter Mrs. Richard Wells Flanders said, "We don't know what's wrong with my father. All we know is that he's been having headaches recently."

A nurse at the hospital said the Bambino was in a wheelchair when admitted.

Michigan Tops Big Nine As Statistical Titlist

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 27 — Michigan, which was edged out of the Big Nine championship by Illinois by a margin of a half game, wound up today as the "statistics titlist" by clinching top honors in offense and defense as well as six other departments of play.

With their overpowering 58-6 win over Ohio State, the Wolverines averaged 340.9 yards from scrimmage in seven conference games to lead Indiana, which averaged 294, and held opponents to an average gain of 188.3 yards to 202.3 for Lowa's opposition. Michigan also was tops in scoring average with 23.6 points per game; had the best defensive scoring record of 6.6 points; led the Hoosiers in pass offense with 145.5 yards a game; held opponents to an average of 117 yards rushing; had the lowest percentage of passes completed against them, .305, and returned intercepted passes 42.5 yards a game.

Notre Dame Tackle "Lineman of Week"

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 27—Notre Dame's George Connor, who has been playing a bangup game all season, finally has been nominated as lineman of the week in The Associated Press poll.

An All-America tackle candidate, Connor earned the honor this week for his play in the Notre Dame Guard, also was named one of the linemen of the week.

'46 JUNIOR HIGH GRID PROGRAM NETS $190

Each School To Receive That Amount, Association Says.

Marion junior high schools will be $190 richer as a result of the recently concluded football program, the Marion Junior High School association announced at a meeting Monday night.

Gate receipts from the program of eight games amount to that much for each school after expenses have been deducted, M. R. Sechrist said in a report submitted to the association.

"We very much appreciate the way the people of Marion have supported the junior high football program this year and will try to give them the kind of athletic program they want," W. E. Orcutt, chairman of the association, said in commenting on the success of the program.

Charging sleds at a cost of $165, have been ordered for each school, the association reported. The Y's Mens' Service club has donated the funds for one unit and the money for the other two units is being contributed by interested business men of Marion.

The association stressed that money realized from sales by concession stands operated at the games is not a part of their fund, since it is under the direction of the P.-T. A.

Total receipts were $1,222 from eight games, according to the report. Highest gate was $240.45, lowest $55.55. Of the grand total $437.90 was obtained from the sale of adult tickets and $784.10 from student ducats.

Expenses were listed as $648.31, leaving a net of $575.69. After payment to each school a balance of $5.69 was left.

Expenses were itemized as follows: tax, $185.31; advertising, $25.72; police, $28.00; gate, $114; guards, $81; score boards, $64; referees, $120; public address system, $5; refreshments, $3.03; tickets, $11.76; contributors coupons, $3.09; telephone, $5.40.

BG WINS SEE-SAW GAME

By The Associated Press

BOWLING GREEN, O., Nov. 27—The lead changed 20 times before Bowling Green won a basketball game from Heidelberg last night 46-42. Forward John Payak of Bowling Green led in scoring with 15 points.

YMCA Organizes Cage Loops For 1946-47 Season's Battles

Three Leagues To Compete on Monday, Thursday and Friday Nights.

With the culmination of pre-season play at the Y, each team that entered has been assigned to either the AA, the A, or the B league. This placement comes as a result of the showing in the warmup games, where they were judged not so much by whether they won or not but by how potentially strong each was. Bill Minard and Evert Shipman acted as judges.

Each league has been assigned a night in which to play and the activities will get under way with a meeting of the A league Monday night. The double A will play Thursday night and the B league will start Friday night. There will be two rounds of play in each league, the winner of the first round to meet the winner of the second round, provided there are dual winners and at the end of the season a double elimination tournament will be held.

AA Teams Listed

Teams in the AA are McMillen Feeds, Fairfield Engineering, Green Camp K. of P., Smith's Clothing, Stone's Grill, and Claridon Ex-Hi. McMillen was the league winner last year and is led by Mickey Ferrin and Gene Shellhorn, both players with considerable experience in semi-pro basketball. Other members of the club are Elmer Busler, Roy Eberly, Don Flesher, Gene Lohne, and Dick McCurdy.

First Army vs. Navy Grid Tilt Different From Present Game

By The Associated Press

With Navy in possession, the Middie signal caller shouted nix tackle and sneets, let go and overhaul the weather lifts —and his teammates knew he meant a flying wedge

That was Army-Navy football 56 years ago when the two service teams met for the first time

The first skirmish, back in 1890, excited no one A lone reporter for a New York papers stood with 500 shivering spectators on the ropelined field and watched a hastily-assembled Army team lose 24-0 to more experienced Navy.

This Saturday however more than 100 newsmen and 100 photographers will diagnose every play in the 103 000-seat Municipal Stadium This time Army has the experience, while Navy—loser of seven straight after edging Villanova in its opener—is still trying to assemble a winning squad.

Some members of the first two teams may be on hand for the 1946 version — likely sitting where the gold braid is thickest They'll remember that the Cadets chipped in 52 cents each in 1890 to pay the expenses of the invading Midshipmen. There was no admission charge

The lucky 103,000 who'll witness the 46th clash will pay around $450,000 for the privilege And doubtless many times that number would be on hand if seats were available Army has won 24 times in the series, Navy 19 with three ties

PLAYER FOR LOSERS OFFENSIVE CHAMPION

Tidwell Tops U. S. Gridders Although Auburn Lost 6.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov 27 — Although his team has lost its last six games Travelin' Travis Tidwell of Auburn again is the individual offensive leader today among the nations college football players

The yearling workhorse recaptured the lead from Bobby Layne of Texas by accounting personally for 227 yards against Clemson last week as Auburn went down to a 31-13 defeat

Statistics released by the National Collegiate Athletic bureau today show that Tidwell, who has thrown or carried the ball 305 times in nine games, has gained a total of 1,470 yards

If he can hold the lead through the season, he will be the second freshman in history to grab the individual offensive title the other being Bob Hoernschmeyer who gained 1 648 yards for Indiana in 1943

Bob Montgomery KO's Mouzon To Retain Lightweight Title

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 27 — The 27-year-old Bobcat Bob Montgomery always wins the last battle—or the one that counts when the chips are down

He did it again last night by stiffening whirlwind Wesley Mouzon a 19-year-old streak of dark brown lightning in eight rounds in Convention Hall to hang onto his half of the world lightweight championship just when every one figured he was washed up

Afterwards Montgomery was grinning in his dressing room and chiding some of those who had thought Whirlwind Wesley would knock him out in two rounds—as he did last August

'A lot of you guys said I was all washed up and one more fight and I'd go into business he reminded 'but here I am—still the champ'

Indeed he did prove himself champ—champion of the lightweight world bounded by New York and Pennsylvania, and not to be confused with the other, or National Boxing association, half where Ike Williams, the trans-Atlantic traveler from Trenton, N J has the official blessing.

Bob proved it before 12,416 customers who paid $85 414 for tickets and jammed Convention Hall to the rafters It was the biggest indoor fight gate in Quaker City swatting history.

Mouzon took the first three rounds on his speed and jabs Bob slowed Mouzon down with body blows softened him up with rights and finally caved the roof in with a long left hook at 2 18 of the eighth

Mouzon was surprisingly light last night at 132¾ Montgomery weighed 135 on the button

Bob blamed his speedy knockout last August to the bout being put on early because of threatening weather Always a slow starter, Bob claimed he didn't have a chance to warm up

'I warmed up in the dressing room this time for half an hour before going into the ring,' he revealed after last night's fuss.

U. S. Attempt To Wean Yugoslavia From Russia Seen

By J. M ROBERTS JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The general interpretation of the latest U S note to Poland, that Warsaw can expect no further credits if it persists in what Washington considers 'disturbing' election preparations, has heightened speculation in United Nations circles as to whether the U S intends to make a stab at pulling Yugoslavia and Poland out of the Russian sphere

Such speculation has been current since the United States came out against continuation of international relief distribution and inferred, instead, that she intended to base allotment of her supplies at least in part on the reciprocal attitudes of needy nations

Under UNRRA, relief distribution has been handled without regard for politics The state department hasn't of course, decided to stand coldly by in violation of American tradition while there is mass starvation anywhere But short of that, the idea from now on is to help out friends first and not to help peoples in countries whose governments work against us

Help Strengthens Government

The realities are that by helping to feed a people and finance their government you strengthen that government in whatever it wants to do, and, conversely, if you wish to change a government, hungry people and straitened finances can be a major weapon

Under an international policy of relief distribution strictly on the basis of need the U S conceivably could find itself feeding a people whose government, thus relieved of one part of its burden actually would use the surcease to prepare for war against us

The United States announcements, plus these realities, have led to gossip at Lake Success that whether she has definite designs or not, America is in a position to break the Tito government and force a change in Poland

Actually however this would depend on what these countries could obtain elsewhere And it's not to be forgotten that Russia not contributing supplies to UNRRA and instead, being helped in the Ukraine and White Russia sent shiploads of grain to France just at a time when it would do the French Communists most good in an election Any application of sanctions against Warsaw and Belgrade undoubtedly would drive Russia to extreme efforts to offset the damage a job for which she has had more than a year to prepare while we have been carrying the major burden of European rehabilitation

Must Follow Through

Such sanctions also must involve a determination to follow through for some time to come

Should changes take place in the Polish and Yugoslav governments support would have to be paired in Otherwise the forces which have made us unhappy would undoubtedly return to the saddle Military help might be needed as the British have found in Greece

This would involve us in some pretty serious activities, of a type which burned our fingers in Nicaragua and Haiti and has caused the British interminable embar-

BATTERED PENN GUNS FOR IVY LOOP TITLE

Meets Cornell in Battle To Decide League Champ.

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 27 — The University of Pennsylvania —clawed by the Princeton Tiger and finally flung into football obscurity by the Black Knights of Army—today winds up training for its Thanksgiving meeting with a Cornell eleven that hopes to emerge with Ivy league honors.

A sellout crowd of 78,000 is expected to witness the 53rd renewal of the Penn-Cornell series which finds the Ithaca team coming to Penn's Franklin Field a far greater threat than last year when the Red and Black romped to a 58 to 6 victory

The Big Red — with victories over Columbia, Dartmouth and Princeton and a tie with Yale—can win the Ivy league championship by conquering Penn

Cornell has further incentive for winning in addition to its championship aspirations — tomorrow's game will be the last at the Big Red helm for Coach Ed McKeever, who announced his resignation yesterday.

If we tried it and did make it stick however the Communists might decide to settle down to develop what they have and drop at least for a while their dreams of expansion And it might solve some western conscience over what has happened to some of the countries for whose liberties they ostensibly went to war.

Notre Dame over Southern California. This game revives a pre-war feature and Southern California will be regretting Saturday that it didn't wait a year longer

"Battle Royal Slated For Holiday Card"

Promotor Fishbaugh has signed a battle royal to headline his Thursday night wrestling program and from the top names he has selected it looks like one of the best to be signed for the Marion Armory. The five men to take part in this free-for-all are Whitey Walberg of Milwaukee, Capt. Mike Mihalakis of Hollywood, Al Szasz of St Louis, Danny Savage, former all American football star from the University of Utah and a new face to Marion fans, Salvadore Balbo of Quincy, Mass.

The battle royal will follow the ten minute prelim between Bill Glenn and John House both of Marion at 8 30. The five men will start together and the first man beaten will get his expense money plus a shower and he is done for the evening; the next two to lose will return for the forty-five minute semi-final and get semi-money; the last two left in the ring return for the two hour main event and get the top money. Both matches are for the best two out of three falls. It's a great program so don't miss it. Call Markert & Lewis Cigar Store early for your best ringsides. Prices all taxes paid; General Admission 75c. Reserved Ringside $1.00 and kids under 14 years, 50c.—Adv.

DR. THUMA NAMED AS LA RUE VET DENTIST

LA RUE—Dr J C Thuma, La-Rue dentist, has been chosen by the veterans administration to render dental service to veterans of World War II without cost to the veteran who can qualify under the VA regulations This is a change in policy regarding dental care to the veteran

Formerly this care was given in the veterans hospitals This home town plan was developed by the Veterans Administration in co-operation with the Ohio Dental society The scale of fees is set by the VA

The dental treatment must first be authorized by the VA headquarters after application has been approved by the local dentist Only dentists whose names are on the approved list are authorized to render this dental work to veterans.

The veteran must show that his dental disorders were service connected To be service connected the disorder must have developed after induction and prior to his discharge or that it was the result of specific action while in service However, any veteran out of service less than a year who is found to have a dental disorder when examined by VA dentists is eligible to receive treatment from locally approved dentists

The first regular showing of a motion picture in the United States was in New York City in 1896

ABDUCTION, ROBBERY REPORTED TO POLICE

Marysville Man Tells Officer of Drive to Mansfield.

... V. Gray of Marysville ... here this morning at ... he had been forced by ... men to drive to Mansfield ... here and had been ... of a ring which he valued ...

A swing shift worker at Uni... Cooler, he said two men entered his car at East Center and Lincoln avenue as he stopped for the intersection last night at 11:05 p. m. One of them, armed with a revolver, ordered him to drive to Mansfield, he said. When they arrived there, they picked up another man, Gray said, and then drove back to Marion by way of Mt. Gilead. On the way back, he said, the ring and a fountain pen were taken from him by the men. They got out at Main and Center streets and walked north, he said. He described two of the men as short and stocky and the other as tall and thin.

PASTOR CALLS SIN GREATEST WORLD EVIL

Rev. Walter Kaelin Speaks at St. Mary Church.

Designating sin as "the greatest evil in the world and the only thing that makes for eternal unhappiness," Rev. Walter Kaelin, C. P., of Chicago, spoke on "The Malice of Mortal Sin," in last night's mission sermon at St. Mary Catholic church. Tonight Rev. Roland Maher, C. P., of Detroit, will speak on eternal judgment, and Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock the sermon topic will be "Purity of Morals."

Hatred, which Rev. Kaelin pointed out, caused the death of Christ on the Cross, is love broken down and striking back in vengeance, he said. He pointed out that sin is not modern, although some people believe it is, and stated that 'it is just as old as Adam and Eve." Yet, he asked, "how many people commit sin in order to be modern?"

He cautioned his audience not to be deceived by the whisperings of Satan, and asked them to go back over their lives and recall the love they had for God in their childhood. "We loved Him," he continued, "until we reached a point we thought He was interfering with our lives."

whittling the Communists in the CIO down to size.

Small but Influential

It will not be an easy job. The Communists in the CIO and their really dependable allies represent less than two per cent of the total membership. Yet according to Murray's own estimate, they closely control unions representing twenty per cent of the CIO's membership, and they deeply influence a number of other unions.

Evidently there is a long way to go, but at least the process of erosion has begun. In only one way can this process be reversed. A thoughtless anti-labor hysteria, leading to attempts to abolish the entire labor movement by legislation, would immeasurably strengthen the Communists' position.

LEGAL NOTICE

Sealed bids for furnishing one Bookkeeping Machine for use at the Marion City Hospital will be received by the Safety-Service Director of the City of Marion, Ohio, at his office in the City Building until 12 o'clock noon Eastern Standard Time on December 5, 1946 and at that time will be publicly opened and read.

Copies of the advertisement, specifications, contract and performance bond are on file in the office of the Safety-Service Director and available for inspection by prospective bidders.

Each bid must be accompanied by a certified check on a solvent bank in the sum of $200.00 made payable to the order of the Safety-Service Director of the City of Marion, Ohio, as a guarantee that if the bid is accepted, a contract will be entered into and its performance properly secured. The check shall be forfeited if the said bidder fails to enter into a contract with the City of Marion, Ohio and to furnish the required bond within fifteen days after notice that award is made to said bidder. Bidders are required to use bid forms prepared by the City. These forms will be furnished by the City upon application.

A performance bond in the amount of $1,000.00 with a satisfactory corporate surety, will be required for the faithful performance of the contract.

Bids must be filed in sealed envelopes and plainly marked "Bids for furnishing Bookkeeping Machine."

Should any bid be rejected, the accompanying check will be returned forthwith, and should any bid be accepted, the check will be returned upon the proper execution and securing of the contract.

The right is reserved by the City of Marion to reject any or all bids.

Edward O. Uncapher,
Safety-Service Director.
Nov.20,27,1946.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

"JUNIOR and Roderick together could cope with a much stronger man than Sam Brixton in his present weakened condition," I told my father sedately.

"I thought as much," he said. "They are good lads, with stout hearts and good head-pieces.

"They won't have to lose all of their sleep, either," he said. "There is a comfortable couch in my living room, on which one can sleep while the other is keeping watch. There is another easier one on which Katharine can get some rest, once she is sure Sam is safely asleep. Dr. Twitchell, by the way, is going to give Sam a harmless sedative, but one which will insure his sleeping soundly most of the night."

There appeared to be no need for comment on my part, and I made none. I thought my father sent a curious look in my direction, but it was so fleeting that I could not be sure what expression it carried.

"There is something else," he said. "Have you the keys to the rooms where Lillian, Marion and the two Brixton women are sleeping?"

There was something in his voice as he spoke of the Brixtons which betrayed his private opinion of the mother and daughter who had caused us so much trouble.

"I haven't them with me," I said. "They are locked in my desk where I put them after locking both bedroom doors just now."

An Involuntary Glance

My father sent an involuntary, almost instantly checked glance at Harry Underwood. But the face of Lillian's husband showed no touch of knowledge of the situation, nothing save animated interest.

"Well, I'll be eternally singed!" he said. "Did it on her own, Chief!"

He turned to me.

"Did you smell a mouse or two?" he asked blandly, and I almost choked trying to control my laughter muscles.

"I don't understand you, Harry," I said. "I locked the doors simply because I know how—inquisitive—Helena Brixton and her daughter are."

An Impudent Retort

"'Snoopy' is the word used in our better circles," Harry Underwood said, with an impudent nuance in his voice, and my father frowned.

"Please go on, Margaret," he said, and I turned my face from Harry Underwood's mirthful eyes. It was no time for an explosion of laughter, I reminded myself, and I knew that my nerves were demanding just that relief.

"And I was sure, Father, you did not want them prowling around the house at night."

"You were eminently correct in your assumption, my daughter," he said, still with the formal air which I have learned from experience masks great stress with him.

The Right Thing

"You did exactly the right thing," he said. "Under no circumstances do I want the Brixton women—or Sam, for that matter—without the protection of locked doors tonight. I will explain presently."

I "perked up a bit" as Mrs. Ticer would say. Perhaps mine was not to be solely a blindly helping rule with no knowledge of why I was doing things. But my father was speaking to his FBI aide.

"'K'," he said. "Will you please get the boys down here. But before you do, go to my wing, tell Mrs. Bickett and Dr. Twitchell that the boys will mount guard inside my wing for the night, changing their watch every four hours. Tell them also that when the boys have come to them, I want the doors of my wing locked and kept locked until further notice. There is a small guest room in the wing which Dr. Twitchell can use.

"Tell them also," he went on, "that they must not be alarmed if they hear revolver shots in the house during the night. Say that I will explain when I can. But on no account are they to come out into the corridors, no matter what they hear. And they are to open the doors only to the signalling knocks they know."
